Oentlemen—I have been using Wright's Celery Capsules since Nov., 1894, and find them to be as recommended. I first began taking them while at Hot Springs, Ark., under treatment for Sciatic Rheumatism. Liver, stomach trouble and constipation with which I had been a long sufferer. I found the Celery Capsules give me great relief from the beginning and have used them ever since. With pleasure, and unsolicited, I recommend to them to any and all suffering with like afflictions or other of them. Truly yours,

Prof. C. H. Deirish, representing the American Book Company, was in our city this week. The books from this company are to use in all the schools of this county, and in fact all of the counties of the State, and it does seem right and proper, and we have no doubt but that the Board will readopt the same series of books that are now in use—children, removing from one county to another, find the same series of books being used in the school, and that awful and unnecessary expense is thus avoided, and this is a great saving to the poorer classes.

TRAGEDY IN A HOTEL.

Railroad Auditor Kills His Assistant At Jacksonville, Florida.

Jacksonville, Fla., July 19.—In a moment of passion caused by a dispute over a game of cards, W. W. Haralson, Auditor of the Jacksonville and Tampa and Key West railroad, dealt a death-blow to Francis M. Ector, Assistant Auditor of the same road. The tragedy occurred last night in the reading-room of the Arlington Hotel, where the two men boarded. Ector and Haralson were warm friends, and nearly every evening played cards in the reading-room of their hotel. Last night they were playing cribbage, when a difference

A DISPUTE OVER TOLL.

Results in the Killing of Jasper Black by J. W. Parris Near Lexington.

Lexington, Ky., July 16.—J. W. Parris, a young married man who keeps a toll-gate on the Athens and Chillicothe pike, shot and killed Jasper Black just before sundown yesterday. Black was a young farmer in the neighborhood, and he and a companion had passed through the gate in a spring wagon just before the shooting. They got into a dispute with Parris about the toll, and some hot words followed. The two men finally drove on after Black had paid the toll. They had gone about 100 yards, when Black told his companion

AT CHURCH.

William Board Shot to Death by J. W. Bugg.

Harrodsburg, Ky., July 19.—At Benton Baptist church, seven miles west of Harrodsburg, where a protracted meeting was in progress, J. W. Board was assassinated last night just as the people were gathering at the church door by J. W. Bugg, who came up behind him and fired three balls into his body in rapid succession. One bullet entered the spine, one the left kidney and the third took effect in the heart. Either of the shots would have proven fatal.

Board, when shot, fell to the ground but partially rose, fired one shot at Bugg, threw his pistol at him and exclaimed: "Bugg, that's my only load; you can kill me now," and fell to the ground a corpse. The murder was witnessed by a dozen friends of the parties, none of whom could interfere, so quickly was the shooting done. The congregation scattered, women and children screaming as they ran to their vehicles and disappeared while Bugg calmly reloaded his revolver and walked away to the house of a friend, where Sheriff James found and arrested him at 1 o'clock this morning and brought him to jail.

An inquest was held, the evidence before the Coroner tending to establish the fact of an intimacy existing between Board and Bugg's wife. One witness stated that Bugg had recently charged Board with criminal intimacy with Mrs. Bugg and that Board had admitted it. Another witness stated that it was common rumor that Bugg had been offered a bribe of $600 to kill Board. Bugg refuses to talk to reporters.

Board and Bugg were neighboring farmers, each about thirty years old. Board left a widow and six small children. Bugg has a wife and one child.

A Monster Barbecue.

There was much talk among some of the stalwart silver men here yesterday looking to plan a grand rally and barbecue in the interest of the Democratic ticket at some convenient point in this section at some day to be decided upon in the future. There is every probability that the movement set on foot will develop into a perfected arrangement for the proposed meeting.

Speakers of National reputation will be secured and everything done to make the meeting a notable one. Wherever the master was broached it met with the hearty approval of all who heard it. Pledges of money and provisions were freely offered. The Democrats in this section are in earnest and determined to roll up unheard-of majorities in this and surrounding counties.

Sharyboro Fair.

Everything ready. Big crowd expected and ample accommodations for everybody. Outlook flattering for good exhibition. Trots and racing will be fine. This is one of the best fairs in the State, and a good crowd is expected to be in attendance from this county.

Ector sprang at Haralson, grasping his by the throat. Haralson struck his opponent in the face, but Ector came again, and as he did so, Haralson struck his friend over the head with a heavy chain. Ector fell unconscious, and in spite of the physicians, died at 5 o'clock this morning.

WOOL FROM MARY'S LITTLE LAMB.

Made Into Yarn That Seventy-five Yards Last Sold For $300 an Ounce.

I have got some yarn that was made from the fleece of the original "Mary's little lamb," said the wife of a well known Orange county lawyer. "There are only four strands of it, and each one is only a few inches in length, and it cost 50 cents a strand. There is no doubt about its being the genuine wool of that immortal creature. I was in Boston a few years ago at the time the ladies of that city were raising funds to purchase the Old South church, which was threatened with destruction by the march of modern improvement. Among other devotees was a fair called Aunt Tabitha's knitting bee, the attraction of which was a number of venerable dames who spun yarn on ancient spinning wheels, just as they and their mothers had spun it from the wool in the early days. Some Boston lady heard that Mary, the heroine of the little lamb rhyme, had come to Sterling, Massachusetts, the person of certain pretensions. Mrs. Tyler, a widow. This lady went to Sterling and not only found that Mrs. Tyler was really the original of the poem, but induced her to come to Boston and spend a day at the knitting bee. She was a delightful old lady and told the story of her little lamb.

"When she was but a few years old, her name being Mary Sawyer, among the lambs born on her father's farm that night was one which was not a lamb, but a lambkin. Farmer Sawyer said that it could not live by live. The child Mary felt sympathy for the helpless lambkin who begged her father to let her take it and try to nurse it into strength. He told her to take it. She carried it to the house, and all the rest of the day and all the following night treated it with such gentle care that next morning it was much improved, and Farmer Sawyer rejoiced Mary by telling her that it would live and grow strong. Such a lamb would be the case, and it grew the lambkin after all, for Mary was so great that it was miserable when separated from her."

"The stanza which says

"'T followed her to school one day,
Which was against the rule.
It used to sit upon a little shelf
To see a lamb a-comforting and play records a fact, Mrs. Tyler said. The occurrence led a youth who attended the school to put the story of Mary and her little lamb into verse. The poet's name is lost. The lamb grew strong and healthy, but the fondness of the lamb for Mary and of Mary for the lamb never grew less. One day as it was following Mary, who had gone to the pasture after the cows, the lamb was attacked by a vicious cow, which gored it with her horns and threw it into the air. It fell at Mary's feet and died. Mary's grief was deep and long lasting.

"The fleece was removed from her ill-fated pot's body, and she spun it with her own hands into yarn, a quantity of which she kept back after spinning. Many years later, she was willing to part with some of it to aid in raising the fund for preserving the Old South church and brought with her to Boston perhaps a quarter of an ounce. After she told the story of Mary and her little lamb her yarn was in such demand that it was cut up into lengths sufficient to net $75 by the sale. I bought four little pieces of it at 50 cents a piece, and that is how I happen to have some of the wool of Mary's little lamb.—New York Sun.

"The Reading Mania. "They talk about the drink habit, the tobacco habit and the morphine habit," said Dr. E. C. Briggs of Pittsburgh, "but the worst habit of which man can become addicted I have never seen mentioned in print. I refer to the reading habit."

"Reading is indeed a source of recreation and profit when properly regulated, but when it becomes a confirmed habit it wrecks a man mentally and physically, rendering him entirely useless to himself or the world."

"Every librarian knows the class to whom I refer. Those with the reading habit read every minute, their brain becomes incapable of realizing the actual affairs of earth, and they no more understand other men than though they had never seen them."

"They are, of course, possessed of inexhaustible information, and a person to talk to one usually would suppose him to be a great man when, as a matter of fact, he is no more fitted to take part in the affairs of the world than is a child in a cradle. There is no more pitiable object on earth than the man afflicted with the reading mania."—Washington Star.

Might Be Worse. "Mother—My dear, your father cannot stand this. Your husband, the count, has lost half a million at poker within six months."

Daughter—But, mamma, that is not so bad. I understand that the Earl of Tuffnick and the Marquis de Debris have each lost twice as much as that.—Brooklyn Life.

IN THE JUNGLE STORM.

Where the Rain Comes Down Like Bullets and All Is Darkness.

People who have never been in a jungle talk of the sky as a painter talks of the horizon, or a seafaring man of the ocean, but who have wanted to see it, you only need use your eyes. But in the jungle you don't see the sky—at least you only see a few scraggy patches of it overhead through the openings in the twigs and leaves. Neither do you feel the wind blowing, nor get burned and dazzled by the sun, nor ever see that luminary, except by momentary glimpses about midday, from which it follows that a jungle does not follow a jungle, but to be something else. If he does, however, a greater lumbering than the rest of the weather prophets. On the afternoon about which we are speaking I remember setting forth on my walk in the still glow of the tropical calm and wondering rather at the intense stillness of the surrounding forest. Then the air grew cooler and the green of the foliage in front seemed to deepen, and presently there was a sound as of a giant waterfall in the distance. Waterfalls do not, however, grow louder as they approach, but when noise in front did so. Then there was a loud, angry growl as of a dozen lions. A minute more and the whole jungle began to roar as if 50 squadrons of heavy cavalry were coming up at a gallop. Then came a drop of rain and a peal of thunder which seemed to make the world stop.

Then the storm began. The sky above darkened; the trees clattered; the brushwood beneath hissed and bowed itself. A deluge of raindrops rattled out of the clouds, and it rained, soaking through the densest leaves under which one fled for refuge, striking the grass and sand with millions of dull thuds, dashing furiously against the leaves as if they were so many hostile shields, streaking the air with innumerable perpendicular lines and hurling itself down with the force of bullets. In such a downpour one may as well walk and get wet as stand still and get wet. Unfortunately one did not know where to walk to. The "circumstances" of the case presented the fact that the wagon wheel and bullock tracks can be seen and noted, but when the cart track is no longer a cart track, but "all turned to rushing waters," such tracks cannot be seen, and unless you have a pocket compass you may as well try to fly as to get back to where you came from. When one reads of travelers lost in the backwoods, they always steer by the sun and probably very badly, but when there is no sun what are you to do?—Current Literature.

Precedents For Title Hunters.

The objection raised by a section of the American press against the frequency of marriages between Yankee "millionairess" and British "millionaires" is palpable. She may be willing to part with some of it to aid in raising the fund for preserving the Old South church and brought with her to Boston perhaps a quarter of an ounce. After she told the story of Mary and her little lamb her yarn was in such demand that it was cut up into lengths sufficient to net $75 by the sale. Steel vs. Cast Iron.

Steel has superseded iron in all structural work where the greatest strength and durability are required. The old-fashioned cast-iron stove has made way for the

which is made of cold-rolled steel (the strongest steel) and malleable iron (iron that by an expensive process, is made unbreakable), and the whole construction is riveted by hand (the honest way).

The Majestic is built on honor to last the user a lifetime—a long lifetime.

THE SORT OF MAN BRYAN IS.

His Law Partner, Talbot, Likes Him, But Not His Politics.

He Says Bryan's Early Speeches Were Usually Prepared With Much Care.

His Early Struggles, Pet Ideas, Piety, and Marked Personal Characteristics.

Lincoln, Neb., July 14.—Wm. J. Bryan's law partner and most intimate personal friend is a man of about his own age. He is a stalwart Republican. A. H. Talbot is one of the prominent Republicans of the State. A month ago he was nominated for the State Senate. Nobody in Nebraska entertains a higher opinion of Bryan personally, than his partner, but he does not hesitate to condemn his associate's political views.

"Bryan is to be admired for everything except his politics, and I know he is honest in his politics," said Mr. Talbot, who chatted in an interesting manner about his partner.

Will Bryan and I were classmates in the Union Law College in Chicago. We entered the college the same day, in 1881, and we left it together. We usually occupied adjoining seats, and during two years we were the closest of chums. I first met him the year before at Galesburg at an oratorical contest. He represented Illinois college in the contest, and took second prize. I don't remember his subject, but he made a deep impression. Even then he had considerable reputation as a public speaker. He had, while attending college, stamped the State of Illinois for W. M. Springer, with whom Bryan was always on the most intimate and friendly terms, Congressman Springer, you know, got Bryan a place on the Ways and Means Committee. Will was known as a ready, witty talker, and he was much in demand. His utterances were always carefully prepared in advance, and were always polished and graceful. While we were attending the law college he delivered an address on Abraham Lincoln that was very generally commented on."

"Did you then regard him as cut out for a public man?"

"I did not. I knew he was a bright fellow, who would get on in the world, but I never thought of him as destined for a great career. As a matter of fact we were both poor boys, struggling to make our way, and neither one of us thought much of the future then. It kept us busy taking care of the present. We were both utterly without means and had to work our way through college. I worked in one law office and Will in another—Lyman Trumbull's by the way—for $5 per week. We paid all of our expenses out of that. In those days we lunched pretty regularly on a nickel's worth of crackers and apples, but we dined heavily at night."

"What happened when you left the law college?"

"We were graduated in June, 1883. Will went to Jacksonville to engage in the practice of the law, and I came to Lincoln immediately. I didn't see him again until 1887, when he came west on some legal business. He stayed in Lincoln with me over Sunday. I was away part of the day and did not see much of him, but before saying good-bye I suggested that he come out to Lincoln and go into partnership with me. I told him I would guarantee him a living, and that was about all he was getting at Jacksonville. I told him he was just the kind of man to come west and grow up with the country. He did not have very much to say, but shortly after he reached home he wrote me and wanted to know if I was in earnest when I made him the offer of a partnership. I replied that I was, and in a few weeks he came out again and remained here thirty days. At the end of that time he returned to Jacksonville, closed up his business there, and came back with his family, prepared to stay. Some time afterward he purchased a lot on D street for $500 or $600. His father-in-law, Mr. Baird, sent him the money to build his house, $2,700, I think. He settled down to the practice of law, but he devoted some attention to politics almost from the first, and within a year and a half of the time of his arrival in Lincoln he was nominated by the Democrats for Congress.

"All the time he was in law college Will gave a great deal of consideration and study to questions of government. He read up thoroughly on constitutional law, and he was early impressed with the idea that the people were being unjustly burdened by monopolies. He maintained even then that the menace of the country was the encroachment of wealth on the rights of the common people, and he thought there was serious trouble ahead for the country. He was a strong Democrat, and he came honestly by his Democracy, for his father Silas Bryan was one of the staunchest Democrats in Illinois. And, by the way, his father was a capitalist. He was a politician, but at the same time he was known as a religious enthusiast. He was a great man to pray. He would pray at any time and in any place. You never could tell when Silas Bryan was going to break out in prayer. He served in the Legislature, and he invariably dropped off to his knees and offered up a silent prayer before addressing the Chair, and often during the proceedings he would get down on his knees for a few moments of prayer. Then he was made a Circuit Judge, and he continued his praying. When he came into the court room he would pray, and often, while the attorneys were making arguments, he would slide down behind the bench and seek spiritual refreshment. Will Bryan is quite as religious as his father, only he is less demonstrative. He and his wife have been active members of the First Presbyterian Church ever since they came to Lincoln. Will has never, to my knowledge, uttered a word of profanity, nor used tobacco or intoxicants in any form.

"I can recall, one debate in which he participated in his college days, the subject was the duty of a representative in the Legislature or Congress, whether he should be guided by his own views or by those of his constituents. He maintained that the representative ought to be careful to get on the right side and then educate his constituents up to his opinion. "Bryan is an upright, conscientious, Christian man. I have never known a finer character. I am positive that he went into politics with no selfish motives. He is thoroughly convinced that the country is beset with conditions that call for the highest patriotism, the noblest endeavor, and he regards it his duty to help right what he says are the wrongs of the people. I could give you many instances of his disinterestedness.

"Two years ago a gentleman from New York sat in Bryan's private office there trying to get him to make a contract to deliver fifty lectures at a $100 lecture. Bryan was poor then as he is now poor, and I urged him to accept the offer. But he would hardly listen to the man. He said he would not speak for money. He was not in politics for himself, but for the people.

"Nowadays, when women are trying to do everything it is not strange that many of them are overdone. It is not strange that there are physical and mental disturbances. If a woman is a doctor, or a lawyer, or a journalist, or in business, she tries to do everything too. It might be different with a woman who knows when she has done all she can and is destined to be born. Usually a woman's way is to do everything and then drop.

"Working in this field of evil as an old maid. Aunt Emily used to say: 'There's nothing so bad as a woman who wants to do everything.' The woman trouble resulting from over-exertion, especially constipation of the bowels, with all its attendant horrors.

"A woman almost as sage as the energies, so decaidens the ambitions, as that coming from the bowels forgetting the past, the present and the future, about eight hours out of the twenty-four."

Pfeifer's Pleasant Pellets are the most effective remedy in the market. They work upon the system easily, naturally. There are no spasms, no spasmodic contractions of the bowels, no diarrhoea. They are composed of materials that go through the system easily, leaving nothing but the good little servants that they are, disposing of them effectively.

Mrs. ROSENA M. BLISS, of Cincinnati, writes: "I had suffered much with distress, sometimes fainting from too much tension. Overcame it by a simple composition of the bowels. I tried liver pills. They gave temporary relief—but no dissolution. They are composed of materials that go through the system easily, leaving nothing but the good little servants that they are, disposing of them effectively."

and he did not expect to make anything for himself. He said he would not take anything but his expenses. "Why?" he remarked. "It is necessary that those who can should give their lives to the work of emancipating the people. Somebody has got to do this, and I have made up my mind to enter into it heart and soul, but not for my own benefit." He didn't sign the contract.

"When he was in Congress he had an offer of $10,000 a year to become the counsel of a large corporation, but he told the officers that he would not act as their attorney for the entire profits of the concern. He has been repeatedly asked to make his home in Democratic States, with the assurance that he would be elected to the United States Senate and kept there the rest of his life, but he said he preferred to remain in Lincoln, and he will continue to keep his residence in this city."

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constant failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a gallon. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O. Sold by druggists, 75c.

Silver in New Jersey.

United States Senator Smith, of New Jersey, on being asked "Is there any silver sentiment in New Jersey," said: "Yes, much more than is generally supposed. The agricultural element of each party is affected to a considerable degree by the enthusiasm of the Western farmers for this idea. It will be no easy task to overcome this enthusiasm wherever there is a large agricultural element."

"Then you see no walkover for McKinley?"

"On the contrary, I am convinced that if the election was to be held next week, Bryan would win. People here in the east do not appreciate the free silver idea has taken upon the masses of the entire West and South. They believe they are right in principle, and they will be impressed more and more as the campaign progresses by the personality of their candidates."

We are credibly informed that several sales of new corn were made last Monday at 75 cents per barrel, and new oats at 10 cents per bushel, old corn has declined from $1.50 to $1.25 per barrel.

The hemp farmers say that the prices for cutting hemp this year can not exceed two dollars per acre. At this price laborers can earn nearly twice the wages as compared with any other farm work they can get at the time of year.

Lambs are higher than they have been for a year or two—cattle have advanced to 4 cents stock hogs have gone up from 3 to 3½ cents, and a better feeding prevails in almost all other articles of produce.

The number of acres of hemp growing as compared with an average year, is 82 per cent. The average condition is 80 per cent. The highest average condition reported is from Bourbon county, 105, while Mercer furnishes the lowest average 3.

The continual wet weather has almost totally ruined the wheat that is yet in the shock, a very small per cent of the crop though remained to be threshed. The early burrs have been threshed or stacked. The latter variety is being harvested now.

The farming tenantry are clamoring for a reduction of rents. A large number of them say they will not farm at all next year except on the share system. They claim and with apparent good reason that the landlord should share equally the risk with the good tenant, especially now while the prices are so low on all farm products.

It is about settled that we will have no regular week of fair this year, this will not prevent the citizens of the city and the farmers combining and having another of those "World's Fairs," of say two days in some of the woodlands convenient, and sometime in September when we get the benefit of early autumn weather. Have it similar in all respects to that held near Payne's Depot for several years and which was so enjoyable.

The Coming of Baby.

When a baby comes to the house real happiness comes. The care and anxiety count for nothing against the clinging touch of the little hand and the sound of the little voice. The highest function given to human beings is bringing healthy, happy children into the world. Over thirty years ago the needs of women appealed to Dr. Pierce, now chief consulting physician to the Invalid's Hotel and Surgical Institute, of Buffalo, N. Y. The result of his study improved by thirty years of practice is embodied in Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It gives weak women the strength and health necessary for the production of healthy children and it makes the bearing of those children easy. It is sure to cure any weakness or derangement peculiar to women; stops pain, soothes inflammation, strengthens, purifies, invigorates.

A dispute from Ligonier, Ind., says that an action has been brought in the DeKalb Circuit Court for $20, alleged to be due a choir which sang at the funeral of the late Abraham Corbin. As soon as Irish potato tops turn yellow, and the potato skin no longer slips, dig them, handle carefully, never allowing sun to shine on them, and store them in a dry lot; spreading them in a single layer on dry straw or chaff 3 or 4 inches deep and cover with dry straw or chaff to a depth of 6 inches, and they will keep perfectly through the summer. This advice is for Southern growers, who will soon begin to dig.—Home and Farm.

"KEEP OUT OF POLITICS."

Bishop McQuaid's Advice to the Catholic Benevolent Legion.

Rochester, July 14.—The New York State Council of the Catholic Benevolent Legion opened its fourteenth annual convention here to-day. After a street parade this morning mass was celebrated by the Rev. John J. McNamee, of New York, State spiritual adviser, in Cathedral Hall. The Right Rev. B. J. McQuaid, Bishop of Rochester, occupied the Episcopal throne, and in an address said:

"Now let me give you a piece of advice. Beware of politics. Eshew politics these days, a man loses little by doing so. Two years ago an order—not a church organization, but composed largely of Catholics—sold themselves to a political party. Their leaders got office, the presidents got high office, but the 100,000 members got nothing except the betrayal of their order. I wish in this country there were only one nationality. You are all Catholics. I would wish you to be Catholic Americans in the broadest and most patriotic sense."

I have berries, grapes and peaches, a year old, fresh as when picked. I use the California Cold process, do not heat or seal the fruit, just put it up cold, keeps perfectly fresh and costs almost nothing; can put up a bushel in ten minutes. Last week I sold directions to over 120 families; anyone will pay a dollar for directions when they see the beautiful samples of fruit. As there are many people poor like myself, I consider it my duty to give my experience to such, and feel confident one can make one or two hundred dollars round home in a few days. I will mail sample of fruit and complete directions, to any of your readers, for eighteen two-cent stamps, which is only the actual cost of the samples, postage, etc., to me.

The Conditions of Farming.

There has been in the Southern States a steady diversification of farming in the South and it is this change for the better which is pulling the Southern farmer through the hard times.

The "one crop" idea is injurious to any section, for the soil itself revolts and demands rest through change.

No doubt there is some advantage in special training which comes from the subdivision of labor, even on a farm. But when this results, as in the Northwest, in a raising only of wheat, the failure of wheat means poverty.

So in sections of Kentucky given over to horse raising. To raise horses especially requires special training and special capital, and the decline in the value of horses has carried down one stock farm after another.

In the South, a crop of nearly ten million bales of cotton reduced prices to a point where it was absolutely necessary to raise something else.

The result was a reduced cotton crop;

a great corn crop and better prices for what the South had to sell.

But this improvement in cotton caused the Southern farmer to curtail his corn acreage and increase his cotton acreage. Result: More cotton, lower prices and less food.

The season may yet aid the farmer by curtailing the crop, but this is expensive, for when the South plows and plants for ten million bales the labor is one-fourth lost when adverse conditions reduce the yield. The place to reduce the cotton crop is in planting; plant for a small crop and the crop will be profitable.

This has been a great year for vegetation; fruit, vegetables and corn are growing rankly. In various sections cotton, too, shows a fine condition.

But a good year for vegetation is also a good year for insects, and in some sections the worms are curtailing the crop in a very effective manner.—Home and Farm.

STAGE PLAY.

President Faure, of France, Shot at With Blank Cartridges.

Pars, July 14.—An attempt was made to assassinate President Faure to-day. The President had gone to Long Champs to review the troops. He had no sooner entered the field when a man in the crowd stepped forward and fired a revolver at him. The shot did not take effect. The would-be assassin was at once arrested. He declared he had fired a blank cartridge and that he had no intention of killing the President.

The name of the miscreant is given as Francois. It appears that some time ago, in order to draw attention to a supposed grievance which he harbored, he fired a revolver in the hall of the Chamber of Deputies. Francois declares that he had no desire to harm President Faure, but that the sole purpose of his act to day was to secure a hearing by the President of his grievance.

The man Francois, who fired the two shots, was surrounded at the moment by hundreds of people, whose intention was, however, directed toward the President's carriage. The immediate spectators of the act, horrified and indignant, rushed upon the shooter with loud cries of "A Mort, a Mort." Things looked decidedly threatening for M. Francois, and it seemed as though summary punishment was to be wreaked upon him on the spot by the infuriated crowd for his attempted crime. But a strong escort of police appeared promptly on the scene and took charge of the culprit and succeeded in transferring him in safety to a prison station. There Francois was immediately examined and stated in reply to queries that he was a foreman in the municipal office of works. The revolver from which the two shots had been fired was still in his possession. It was a small weapon of the bulldog pattern, and its chamber still contained four undischarged blank cartridges. Francois claimed that the two which he had discharged were also blank and that his purpose in firing them was simply to create a sensation and thus call attention to his grievances.

After the excitement of the sensational firing upon the President from a throng of people had somewhat subsided the incident began to be regarded as only the irresponsible and harmless act of a madman.

The Nebraska Farmer states that Dr. Peters is meeting with uniform success in vaccinating hogs to prevent cholera. He has been called to treat many herds in which the disease had broken out, and by vaccinating those not yet attacked, he has stopped the spread of the disease in every case. Reports to the same effect come from applications of this treatment in France, but the veterinarians there have found that the vaccination is no good unless renewed every fifteen months. Fortunately, very few hogs are kept longer than that.

The French surgeon gives a second vaccination 12 days after the first. But in mind that vaccination prevents hog cholera, but does not cure it. Every pig should be vaccinated when 2 to 5 months old. In one case all of a herd were vaccinated except three, and then all were fed blood from hogs that died of cholera. The three unvaccinated hogs died, and not one of the others became sick.

A bombshell was thrown into both camps of litigants over the $30,000,000 estate of the late James G. Fair, of California, by the discovery that four years ago a will was drawn and filed at Victoria, B. C. Should this will be probated at Victoria, it is not subject to review by California courts, but must be accepted as the millionaire's legal will, in the absence of any subsequent valid wills executed in the later state. As Fair's "true dead" will has been declared unconstitutional by the supreme court, there is a chance for the introduction of the Victoria document.

Read Dr. E. P. Bender's advertisement on 2nd page.

The Kentucky School Fund per capita for the present year has been fixed at $2.20.

The announcement is made that Mr. Dan J. Prewitt and Miss Alice Burton, two of our popular young people, will be married in the early part of September. Our informant says: "Full particulars later."

Asa Bean shipped a hoghead of trash tobacco to S. P. Carr & Co., Richmond, Va., and received for it eight cents per pound. Farmers who have tobacco on hand would well correspond with Messrs Carr & Co.

Mary, the twelve year old daughter of J. J. Peed and wife, of Millersburg, died of gastric fever on Sunday. She was a niece of Mr. L. F. Taber and Mrs. F. W. Bassett. Mr. and Mrs. Tabb and Mrs. Bassett attended the funeral.

William Turner, aged 27, died at the home of his father George Turner next Antioch church Sunday. For a year past the young man had been a sufferer from a bronchial affection. His funeral was preached yesterday by Elder H. D. Clark.

We have not heard of a single complaint of Dr. Bender's work, but on the contrary have heard a number say he is indeed a painless dentist. What he uses is his own secret, but it is all right. At the Commercial Hotel Monday, July 20th, remaining until Saturday, July 25th.

Mary Katherine, infant daughter of Abner Oldham and wife, aged five months, died on Sunday evening from cholera infantum. Funeral was preached Monday afternoon at the residence by Elder H. D. Clark and the remains were taken to Richmond, Ky., where she will be buried to-day. The little one, though short lived, was a blessing to her dear parents. In her they had bright hopes. They saw what she would be to them on earth, but this was not God's will. He took the little spirit that it might become a beacon by which the lives of others might be directed from earth heaven. We often wonder why the good Master gives us these sweet spirits to whom we are bound with cords of love and then crushes their hopes by the hand of death, but His ways are past finding out and to His will the day of revelation knowing all things are well and are for the good of His children.

HORSE AND TRACK.

Azote 2:04½ is turned out at Freeport, and Directly 2:07½ is lame.

It is said that Palo Alto Farm refused $50,000 for the three-year-old colt, Adbell, recently.

Kentucky Union's 2:09½ is the trotting record of the year. The mare is now seven years old.

Jas. Magowan's bay mare, Russie Clay, won third money at Joliet, Ills. Time, 2:11, 2:12, 2:14, 2:15.

Robert J. won free-for-all pace at Elkhart, Ind., in 2:06, 2:05. Badge second, Frank Agan third, John R. Gentry fourth.

The Rev. T. C. Sta-khouse, Lexington, Ky., who bred Rex Americanus 2:11½, was also the breeder of this year's sensation, Baron Crisp 2:12½.

Oratorio, who showed a mile in 2:13½ for Major McDowell about three weeks ago, will not be campaigned this season, but will be saved for next year's stakes.

Lord Clinton "didn't do a thing" to Klamath and Fantasy at Elkhart. The old black war horse has corus and jogs decidedly lame, but he is still a great trotter.

John R. Gentry, some critics aver, has "soured on the game." He is all right in his work, but when he turns for the word in a race he seems to lose both his head and his speed.

Badge can score like a runaway horse. He can also go the route and come home like a sky-roket, and a good many experts are looking for him to beat 2:05 before so very long.

Joe Patchen went his exhibition track last week in 2:04½, very easily—easier than Robert J. went his heat in 2:05 at Elkhart. It is to be said, however, that he had a faster track to step over.

Badge 2:07½, won first money in each of the free-for-all racing events at Omaha, Lincoln, Red Oak and Chicago. As the stakes were $1,000 each, this son of Siles Wright can be paraded as a real velvet" for quite a while.

Susie S. 2:15½, by Hydas, died at Baden, Germany, July 5. She was the property of M. de Beauvais, of Paris, and her death is said to have been due to the hard race she recently trotted at Vienna, losing it to Austrain after seven heats, of which she won two.

At Sharpsburg Fair this week Montgomery will be represented by large attendance. John W. White starts Bob Pepper by Outward in 2:29 pace. F. P. Bean starts Alred by Almont Wilkes in same race. W. T. Fitzpatrick starts his grey mare by Ambush in 3:00 minute trot and the 2:29 trot. These are all good horses and ought to win some of the money offered.

Mr. Marion Bedell Parker, of New York, will be married to Miss Sannie Gaines, of Georgetown, date the 29th instant. Miss Gaines is a favorite with many of our young people.

We have just received FIFTY more of those OLD KENTUCKY TOW-LINEN SUITS. They are the coolest things in the market for warm weather wear. The ladies are now using the Tow-linen for dresses and waists, which ought to vouch for their stylish qualities. Call and see them. The price is low.

Only $5.00.

They are the home-spun—not the machine-knit—and owing to the scarcity of the cloth, this is positively the last lot we will have this season.

Money Made in a Minute.

Did You Ever Make Money Easy.

Mr. Editor—I have read how Mr. C. E. made so much money in the Dish Washer business and think I have beat him. I am very young yet and have had little experience in selling goods, but have made over eight dollars selling freezers, as it is such a wonder, there is always a crowd wanting cream. You can freeze cream elegantly in one minute and that astonishes people so they all want to taste it and then many of them buy freezers as the cream is smooth and perfectly frozen. Every freezer is guaranteed to freeze cream perfectly in one minute. Any one can sell ice cream and the freezer sells itself.

My sister makes from ten to fifteen dollars a day. J. F. Cray & Co., 1143 St. Charles Street, St. Louis, Mo., will mail you full particulars, so you can go to work and make lots of money anywhere, as with one freezer you can make a hundred gallons of cream a day, or if you wish they will hire you on a salary.

FOR AN OLD CRIME.

A Preacher and Erstwhile Bad Man Arrested.

Hindman, Ky., July 16.—Rev.

Washington Craft is under arrest here charged with complicity in the murder of Linville Hagins twelve years ago. Since Hagins was killed Craft has been roaming about E. Kentucky and recently he has been preaching in Clay county, having joined the Baptist church. The indictment under which the arrest is made is eleven years old.

Craft at the time Hagins was murdered lived in Letcher county, and with three other men came to Hagins' place of business, in Hindman, and called for a drink. They became boisterous, and Hagins asked them to stop their noise, when they pulled their pistols and began shooting the glasses off the counter. Hagins became frightened and jumped out through a window. They followed him and shot him to death, his body being pierced by bullets in eleven places.

Craft was arrested, and the other men escaped and he would never tell who they were.

There was an indictment against Craft at the time for the murder of his uncle, and craft for another murder, and he was also charged with breaking into the County Clerk's office at Whitesburg and stealing indictments against his friends.

The Discovery Saved His Life.

Mr. G. Callicouette, Druggist, Beaverville, Ill., says: "To Dr. King's New Discovery I owe my life. Was taken with a grippe and tried all the physicians for miles about, but of no avail and was given up and told I could not live. Having Dr. King's New Discovery in my store I sent for a bottle and begged its use and from the first dose began to get better, and after using three bottles was up and about again. It is worth its weight in gold. We won't keep store of house without it." Get a free trial bottle at W. S. Lloyd's drugstore.

with Craft to Whitesburg. A posse was with him, and when on Rock House creek some men that were identified as men for whom rewards had been offered. The posse started in pursuit of the outlaws, and Cook was following with Craft behind him on horseback. In some way Craft managed to get Cook's pistol away from him and shot the officer dead, took his horse and galloped off in the opposite direction, leaving Cook's body lying in the road.

Craft was a member of J. W. Wright's gang of notorious outlaws, and his arrest recalls the Wright-Jones-Draughan feud, in which twenty men died with their boots on in Knott and Letcher counties. Craft is said to have boasted over killing one-half the men who fell during that noted mountain war, and even since he has been preaching is said to have referred to his record with much pride. He is an athlete of about thirty-eight. He has a family in Clay county and it is said he left a young wife in Letcher after he murdered his uncle.

Spoons Free to All.

I read in the Christian Standard that Miss A. M. Fritz, Station A, St. Louis, Mo., would give an elegant plated hook spoon to any one sending her ten two-cent stamps. I sent for and found it so useful that I showed it to my friends, and made $15 in two hours, taking orders for the spoon. The hook spoon is a household necessity. It cannot slip into the dish or cooking vessel, being held in place by a hook on the back. The spoon is something housekeepers have needed ever since spoons were first invented.

Any one can get a simple spoon by sending ten 2-cent stamps to Miss Fritz. This is a splendid way to make money around home.

Very Truly,
